

ESOC 2024 abstract embargo policy

Abstract title release

- All accepted abstract titles will be published on the conference website/Scientific Programme by mid to late March.

Regular abstracts

- Information from all regular abstracts may not be released until the beginning of the conference.

Large clinical trial session abstracts

- Abstracts from the large clinical trial sessions, occurring daily from 10:30–12:30 CEST, will be accessible at the conclusion of their respective sessions. Information within these abstracts may not be released until each session begins.

Late-breaking abstracts

- Information contained in late-breaking abstracts may not be released until the beginning of their respective sessions.

Press and media selected abstracts

- Abstracts selected by ESO for press and media activities (outside of the large clinical trial and late-breaking abstracts) must not be released until 00:01 CEST on the day they are due to be presented at the conference. For further details on these topics, please contact press@eso-stroke.org.

Oral presentations (excluding late-breakers, large clinical trials and press and media selected presentations and abstracts)

- Information from oral presentations and their associated abstracts, excluding late-breakers, large clinical trial sessions and press and media selected abstracts, may not be released until the beginning of the conference.

Simultaneous publications

- Please note that if any simultaneous publication is planned, the embargo policy from the relevant journal must be adhered to.

Violation consequences

- Violation of the embargo policy may result in the abstract being withdrawn from the conference.
